CORRECTION - PRICE LIST 36 - SPRING 1984 EDITION

Sales advises us that the following price list discrepancies exist in the recently distributed edition (No. 193) of Price List 36. Points 1 and 2 resulted from price changes which became effective immediately upon issuance of the office notices and were too late to correct in this edition. Point 3 was the result of a typesetting error. As there are only 13 subscribers now receiving point 3, it is not expected that this error will be a major problem.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVATE SECTOR SURVEY ON COST CONTROL:
A REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT, VOLUMES 1 and 2

A draft report to the President was mailed under shipping list P840224-1 as package eleven, SuDocs class: Pr 40.8:C 82/P 92/v.1,2. In response to the Librarians who have been asking why such a popular report was published in looseleaf format, we can only answer as follows: The format of a publication is not selected by the Government Printing Office, but by the publishing agency. GPO prints documents according to the specifications set forth by the publishing agency.

The final version of the report was mailed under shipping list P840316-1 as package fourteen. This final version was incorrectly classed as: Pr 40.8:C82/P 92/v.1; the correct SuDocs class is: Pr 40.8:C 82/P 92/v.1,2. The shipping carton for this publication was incorrectly marked as: "Volume I of II;" it should have read: "Volume I and II."

FAULTY CONGRESSIONAL RECORD MICROFICHE

Please note that the microfiche produced for volume 126, parts 1, 8, and 13 of the Congressional Record have been rejected by LPS Quality Control. The microfiche contractor will refilm the product. Distribution of this material to depository libraries is expected by June 1984.

RESPONSES TO RESOLUTIONS OF THE
DEPOSITORY LIBRARY COUNCIL TO THE PUBLIC PRINTER

APRIL 1984

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Res. 1 WHEREAS, Sarah Kadec has graciously facilitated the work of the Depository Library Council during her tenure as Director of the Library Programs Service; and

WHEREAS, Sarah Kadec has fostered a cooperative spirit between GPO and the Depository Library Council; and

WHEREAS, Sarah Kadec has significantly improved communications between GPO and the DLC,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the Depository Library Council expresses its heartfelt gratitude to Ms. Kadec for her work with us; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the DLC wishes Ms. Kadec every success in her future endeavors.

The Government Printing Office appreciates the Council's expressed gratitude for the work of former Director of the Library Programs Service, Sarah T. Kadec. We trust that the work of her successor will maintain a similar high standard and contribute to the further development of the Depository Library Program.

Res. 2 WHEREAS, Dan MacGilvray has been indispensable in all aspects of arrangements for the Depository Library Council meeting; and

WHEREAS, Dan MacGilvray has consistently facilitated the work of the Depository Library Council; and

WHEREAS, Dan patiently solves all the climatic, logistic, procedural, and other "sticky wicket" problems which make our meetings flow more smoothly,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the Depository Library Council expresses its sincere appreciation for all the hard and consistent work that Mr. MacGilvray has done for us (Thanks Dan!); and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Chair of Council especially expresses her sincere gratitude to Dan for his assistance in planning and implementing this meeting.

GPO welcomes the appreciation expressed by Council for the work done on its behalf by our Administrative Librarian, Dan MacGilvray. We trust that future work in assisting with Council meetings will continue to meet with your satisfaction.

- Res. 3 The Depository Library Council commends the Government Printing Office for establishing the classification hotline and urges that this service to depository libraries be continued.

GPO thanks the Council for its commendation. The hotline has proved to be of mutual benefit in solving classification problems, and we intend to continue the service.

- Res. 4 The Depository Library Council urges the Government Printing Office to authenticate its serial records through the CONSER project.

The Government Printing Office recognizes the value of authenticating its records through the CONSER project, which will allow GPO cataloging records for Federal government serials to be distributed through the MARC tapes to other bibliographic utilities. GPO expects to be the first library to implement the new system of self-authentication under procedures now being worked out by the Library of Congress. LC has proposed adoption of multiple authentication levels, under which participating institutions would authenticate their own records. GPO and six other CONSER libraries who are also members of the Name Authorities Cooperative Project anticipate authenticating records in the near future, guaranteeing the complete record content with the exception of subject headings.

- Res. 5 The Depository Library Council recommends that the Government Printing Office give attention to the recent increase in typographical errors in classification appearing on shipping lists and take steps to eliminate the errors.

The Library Programs Service has given special attention to the number of typographical errors appearing on the Shipping Lists. As a result,

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

April 8 - 14 is designated as National Library Week, and Tuesday, April 10th has been marked as a special day to commemorate the Federal Depository Library Program. A Senate resolution, recognizing the fine public services Depositories have been providing for more than 100 years, was passed on Friday, March 30, 1984. A copy of this resolution (S.Res. 359) appears on the next page.

The Government Printing Office has become a 'Partner' in National Library Week and will assist in promoting this annual celebration. As Depository Librarians, you can take advantage of all the publicity NLW receives to tell patrons about the Government publication collection. You may wish to create articles for local newspapers or provide interviews with local TV/radio media promoting NLW and the Depository Program. Libraries such as Bridgeport Public (Conn.) will be celebrating their 100th anniversary as a Depository within this first week of April.

This year's NLW theme, 'Knowledge is Real Power,' coincides with the message on one of the Depository posters: "'Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it.'" (Boswell) You can find a wealth of information from the Federal government at Depository Libraries.' National Library Week provides an ideal opportunity for the general public to learn about the Depository Program.

DEPOSITORY LIBRARY SYSTEM

The resolution (S. Res. 359) to pay tribute to the Depository Library System was considered.

Mr. MATHIAS. Mr. President, the Nation will soon be celebrating National Library Week to recognize the vital public service that has characterized this Nation's libraries. In anticipation of that important event, I ask for immediate consideration of Calendar No. 730, Senate Resolution 359, honoring the depository library program. I am delighted to have my distinguished colleagues from the Joint Committee on Printing and the Joint Committee on the Library join me as cosponsors of this resolution.

The Senate of the United States has a long tradition of supporting the public's right to know about policies, programs, and actions of our Government. The Congressional Depository Library System is one of the oldest and most effective expressions of this philosophy.

This program dates back to the early 1800's when the Congress directed that the Journals of the Senate and the House be distributed to colleges, universities, and incorporated historical societies throughout the country. Through the years, Congress has expanded upon this concept and today there is a nationwide network of over 1,300 depository libraries that provide free and open access to all publications of the Federal Government. The Depository Library Act, which was most recently amended in 1978, provides for each Member of the Senate to designate two libraries in his or her State as regional depositories. In addition, every Member of the House of Representatives may designate two locations in their district as depository libraries.

This program is available to all citizens, and participating institutions range from the Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore, Md., to the U.S. District Court Library in Anchorage, Alaska. Depository collections can be found at major universities, law schools, land grant colleges, and the National Library of Medicine. In 1983, some 40,000 titles were available for selection through the Government Printing Office on topics ranging from infant care and home gardening to the Statistical Almanac and the Federal Register. In short, Mr. President, the depository library program reaches all Americans and provides them with a broad range of information by and about their Federal Government.

In a letter to W. T. Barry, written in 1822, James Madison, the father of our Constitution, warned that:

A popular government without popular information, or the means of acquiring it, is but a prologue to a farce or a tragedy, or perhaps both. Knowledge will forever govern ignorance; and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives.

Mr. President, this resolution will serve to reaffirm the commitment of the U.S. Senate to arm U.S. citizens with the power that knowledge gives.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, as a cosponsor of Senate Resolution 359, I want to congratulate the senior Senator from Maryland (Mr. MATHIAS) for bringing this resolution before the Senate.

As a member of the Joint Committee on the Library, and a former member of the Joint Committee on Printing, I am well aware of the outstanding service provided the American people by the depository library program.

Since the early 1800's the Senate has supported the public's right to know about the programs, actions, regulations and policies of the Federal Government. Today, there are more than 1,300 depository libraries across the Nation providing free and easy access to our citizens of all Federal publications.

In Virginia, 37 libraries have been designated as depository libraries that allow the citizens of the Commonwealth free and open access. Depository libraries in Virginia are:

Alexandria: Department of the Navy, Office of Judge Advocate General Law Library.

Arlington: George Mason University School of Law Library.

Blaeksburg: Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University, Carol M. Newman Library.

Bridgewater: Bridgewater College Alexander Mack Memorial Library.

Roanoke: Roanoke Public Library.

Salem: Roanoke College Library.

Wise: Clinch Valley College John Coolidge Library.

The resolution, Mr. President, pays tribute to these libraries and their dedicated personnel and, in fact, all individuals and libraries associated with the program.

It is fitting and proper that this resolution be enacted to coincide with the celebration of National Library Week held each year in April.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution as a means of reaffirming our support of this program that insures public knowledge of their Government's actions in each and every congressional district in our land.

The resolution was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, and the preamble are as follows:

S. Res. 359

Whereas the United States Senate has recognized that citizens of America should have effective access to Government information throughout the country; and

Whereas the Congress of the United States has provided its citizens with free and open access to Government information through a Depository Library System that includes at least one depository library in each congressional district; and

Whereas depository libraries in a variety of categories, including public, academic, land grant, State, law school, and Federal libraries, have enthusiastically provided service and access to information to citizens across the country; and

Whereas the Nation celebrates National Library Week each year in the month of April to honor and recognize the fine public service that has always been characteristic of the libraries of America: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate pay tribute to depository libraries throughout the land and commend the many dedicated people associated with the depository library program for their significant contribution in furthering the cause of free and open public access to Government information.

Sec. 2. The Secretary of the Senate shall transmit copies of this resolution to the Public Printer of the United States, the president of the American Library Association and the president of the American Association of Law Libraries.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

shipping list errors have been reduced to a minimum over recent months. However, the majority of errors are due to an incorrect classification number, for which steps have been taken to increase quality control at the point of classification.

Another positive step in this area has been the development of the Classification Manual by former GPO Library Division Chief, Mae Collins. LPS expects that use of a standard Manual will result in more accurate and consistent classification decisions.

Res. 6 The Government Printing Office, in its response to Spring 1983 resolution number five, proposes to discontinue establishing personal name authorities through the Library of Congress NACO project as of October 1, 1983. The Depository Library Council recommends that GPO not unilaterally implement a change of this magnitude without:

1. consultation with the bibliographic utilities to assess the impact on their users and,
2. examination of alternatives such as discontinuing personal name authority work for technical report material only.

The Government Printing Office has sent a letter to representatives of the UTLAS, RLIN, WLN, AND OCLC databases, and to the Library of Congress, asking for their assessment of Council's proposal regarding personal name authority. The responses received to date are included in the information packet provided to Council members.

Res. 7 The Depository Library Council commends the Government Printing Office for beginning compilation of A Practical Guide to the Superintendent of Documents Classification System. Council recommends that GPO ensure that this manual reflects current classification policies and practices and provides for its updating to accommodate future changes.

The Government Printing Office thanks the Depository Library Council for their commendation concerning the compilation of A Practical Guide to the Superintendent of Documents Classification System. GPO also wishes to assure Council that a thorough review of the Guide is underway, and a major concern of this review is to ensure that the Guide is consistent with current classification policies and practices. As we currently envision this project, the Guide will stand as an historical compilation, documenting the application of the SuDocs system from its inception in 1895. LPS staff are also continuing the compilation of the GPO classification policy memos, which are the in-house instructions for applying the classification system in a day-to-day operational environment. It is this portion of the GPO Classification Guidelines material that would be updated to accommodate changes or additions to the operating instructions. LPS intends to issue both sections of the GPO Classification Guidelines to depository libraries in a loose-leaf format as soon as the compilation and review activities can be completed.

Res. 8 The Depository Library Council recommends that the Government Printing Office develop procedures for distributing corrections in machine-readable form to subscribers to the Monthly Catalog tapes distributed by the Library of Congress. The Government Printing Office intends to develop procedures for distribution of machine-readable corrections to the Monthly Catalog. The new procedures will be incorporated into a proposed, new production method for the Monthly Catalog. Under this new method, when an error is discovered after publication of a Monthly Catalog issue, that entire entry would be purged, replaced with a corrected record bearing a new entry number; the corrected entry would appear in a later register and in all subsequent indexes. Thereby, corrected bibliographic records could be distributed in machine-readable form to the Monthly Catalog subscribers.

Res. 9 At its Fall 1982 meeting, the Depository Library Council submitted the following resolution: "Due to the increasingly widespread potential use of the GPO MARC tapes by bibliographic utilities, consortia, and individual libraries, the Depository Library Council recommends that GPO investigate the various problems being encountered in the use of these records." In its response to this resolution, GPO recognized the problems encountered by users of its Monthly Catalog tapes and stated that a task force would be created by July 1, 1983, to study the issues and report its findings. Council is unaware that the proposed task force has been created. It now wishes to submit the 1982 resolution and urges that GPO take immediate action.

At the recommendation of the Council, a questionnaire addressing the use of GPO MARC tapes was sent to depository libraries. The text of the questionnaire is as follows:

Res. 10 In response to the Government Printing Office's request for advice on Monthly Catalog format, the Depository Library Council recommends the following:

To improve searchability:

a. Continue to provide the indexes to the Monthly Catalog separate from the register of full bibliographic information, but increase the amount of access information in the indexes so that most users need conduct only a one-step search.

b. Provide the indexes as a microform publication which cumulates monthly to the end of the year and cumulate the annuals at the end of five years.

To reduce cost:

a. Provide both the register and the indexes in microfiche.

b. Provide the paper index and the fiche index as separate subscription items. Many subscribers would need only the indexes and not the full bibliographic record provided by the register.

To meet user format needs:

a. Provide the register and the index in a choice of fiche or paper for depository libraries and as sales items in both fiche and paper.

To reduce printing delay:

The shift by some users to microforms or to purchase of the paper index without the register would reduce the volume of printing.

Example of format of records in index:

INDEX TERM IN CAPITAL LETTERS

Title. Edition. Publisher...Date. p. Format. (series)

Item number (microfiche) Registry issue no.

The Government Printing Office thanks the Depository Library Council for its recommendations to improve the usefulness and timeliness of the Monthly Catalog while reducing its production costs. GPO is considering some of these recommendations for the subscription year beginning January 1985. The Monthly Catalog in its present format is compiled using computer software adapted to this application early in 1976. Inherent limitations in this software make changes to the Monthly Catalog content or format costly, difficult, and problematical. Therefore, LPS is requesting that new software be developed to support the Monthly Catalog system, but while this upgrade is underway GPO does not expect to be able to initiate major enhancements to the Monthly Catalog.

After a thorough review of the Council's recommendations, LPS personnel have a number of concerns with some specific items. First, there is a potential problem with the integrity of the 1981-85 five-year cumulative index if any major changes are implemented prior to the 1986 subscription year. Revised software could result in incompatible data reducing the overall quality of the product. Second, major software modifications would probably result in publication delays. The Council has repeatedly expressed its interest in the timeliness of the Monthly Catalog, and in the past year GPO has made significant improvements in this area. GPO is concerned that product and system revisions such as those recommended by the Council might jeopardize the timely issuance of the Monthly Catalog. Third, there is a potential problem with providing adequate identification of various types of publications through the bibliographic description proposed to appear in the indexes. GPO questions whether users will be able to readily determine if a publication is a serial, audio-visual, monograph or map. This problem, coupled with the lack of availability information, including sales statements or stock numbers, reduces the real usefulness of the one-step lookup approach. Finally, Council's recommended enhancements to the content of the Monthly Catalog indexes would lead to a substantial increase in size, which could be expected to translate to increased costs to libraries for subscriptions, binding, and storage.

Res. 11 Depository Library Council requests the continued awarding of certificates for: a) achieving an overall depository grade of excellent on an inspection; b) a special anniversary of the library; c) a special program or service which increases the use of effectiveness of the depository system. In addition, we urge that GPO send press releases to the individual library receiving the certificate, the state library, the regional library, the Congressmen and Senators of the state and any other appropriate body.

GPO appreciates the Council's endorsement of the Certificate of Merit program.

We are committed to continuing the presentation of certificates for the achievements Council has recommended.

Our Legislative Liaison/Public Affairs Office has taken over responsibility for preparing the certificates, press releases and for Congressional liaison.

However, requests for certificates will still be handled through LPS.

Res. 12 The recurrent reports of the executive agencies required by law to be sent to Congress should be included in the depository library distribution system. Some of these reports, for example, the Freedom of Information Act annual reporting requirement, are not currently available for distribution to depository libraries. We urge GPO, as authorized by Title 44, to pursue these elusive documents.

The Government Printing Office pursues any elusive document as a matter of procedure as soon as we know of its existence. Any title the depository librarians believe we have missed should be brought to our attention by using the GPO Inquiry Form #3794. Because of the sheer volume of titles required to be acquired and distributed to the depository libraries, we must depend on the depository librarians to assist us in identifying non-depository titles. We are confident that through such cooperation, all Government documents covered by law can enter the Depository Library Program.

Res. 13 We wish to commend GPO for revising the inspection report form. We recommend that depository libraries be encouraged to conduct a self-evaluation before the actual depository library inspection takes place, using guidelines developed by GPO.

Council's endorsement of the Inspection Report revision is appreciated. GPO initiated the new form at the start of calendar year 1984. We share Council's

MAP DISTRIBUTION PROJECT

The GPO/USGS/DMA map distribution project will be implemented in Fiscal Year 1984 upon completion of two final steps. First, the Geological Survey must complete its testing of the DDIS computerized information provided by GPO, which consists of the library selections and addresses specified in the responses to Surveys 83-11 and 83-12. This information will be used by USGS to produce mailing labels for the map shipments. This testing phase is proceeding very favorably and should be wrapped up by the end of April. Second, the interagency agreement between USGS and GPO which defines the fiscal and operational responsibilities of the two agencies under the project has been signed by USGS and GPO officials. GPO is currently seeking the approval of the Joint Committee on Printing, which is anticipated in the near future.

Maps distributed through this project will be cataloged via OCLC for the Monthly Catalog using record formats developed in cooperation with other map cataloging agencies. Actual cataloging production is expected to be performed by GPO staff with support from the cataloging contract if required.

The recent issue of the Union List of Item Selections, which is a product of DDIS (Depository Distribution and Information System), was mailed to all depository libraries on M840306-6#. The next issue should come out during the Summer of 1984.

The last fiche of the set lists all the depository libraries by library number, with their name, address, and telephone number. The address listed in the Union List is from DDIS. This is the only address used for your depository shipments. If you have a different map address, that address is listed under the same library number with the letter E through J at the end.

Please verify your library's entry to be sure it is correct. The form below should be used for any changes. The library name consists of two lines, plus one line for the street address and one line for the city. These four lines may have up to but not over 30 characters and spaces. If you do not need all four lines you may leave the second line blank.
